I am known for asking tough questions and being forward thinking. I want to bring true democracy back, work to foster a closer knit community, build a localized and resilient economy, and work on our environmental footprint, preparing for a changing climate and collapse of global supply chains. I want trauma informed communication and conflict resolution training for all residents. We have a wealth of social issues being swept under the carpet. I want the end of the “Bread and Circus” government era; collectively we need to grow up and stop passing the buck up the chain of government to solve what are community issues. I will do my best to foster healthy in-depth community discussions and look to include, build up and empower all our community members. The World is changing rapidly; we can act like victims or we can lead the charge for a healthier and just world.
